AGENCY PERMITTING

Genesis offers engineering and consulting services to produce the necessary permit applications and submittal support for your project. Through our decades of experience producing solutions in diverse areas of civil engineering, we have become adept at determining, understanding, and meeting submittal requirements while, at the same time, staying focused on the larger goals and purpose of a project. As your single point of contact with all related reviewing agencies, we usher you through what can sometimes be a complex web of agencies and timelines. We work hard to maintain our solid reputation among reviewing agencies by consistently producing permit applications and review submittals that meet the highest standards for technical skill, attention to detail, and cost-effective design. Our firm communicates with you, contractors, and governing agencies to closely monitor the progress of all permit applications and obtain approvals in the least amount of time possible.
